HEARST SHOWING HIS POSITION

W. R. Hearst Finally Compelled to Recognize the Socialist Party—Many False Statements in His Comparison of German and American Socialists.

In the Chicago Evening American of December 1, W. R. Hearst has for the first time in two years sounded the note of Socialism and Social-welfare work in the interests of the working-men of the United States, which he has hastened to point up by saying in an article this month that "Socialism is the best way to get the working-man of the United States what he wants." In an article of similar character in the "Morning Star," Mr. Hearst has said that the "working-man of the United States is the greatest power in the country, and the greatest power in the country will make Socialism the greatest power in the world." In another article of similar character in the "Morning Star," Mr. Hearst has said that the "working-man of the United States is the greatest power in the country, and the greatest power in the country will make Socialism the greatest power in the world." In another article of similar character in the "Morning Star," Mr. Hearst has said that the "working-man of the United States is the greatest power in the country, and the greatest power in the country will make Socialism the greatest power in the world." THE SOCIALISTS MAKE REPLY TO A. C. BARTLETT

A Challenge to Debate the Case on Its Merits in the Columns of the Chicago Socialist or on Any Public Platform

A. C. Bartlett, Ed., Vice-President Hibbard, Spies, Bartlett & Co.

Dear Sir: Your public letter of September 25, addressed to you from the National Committee of the Socialist Party of America, has been referred to us for consideration. In the first place, we believe that no one has the right to call a person a 'socialist' who is not a member of our party and who is not connected with it in any way. Therefore, we cannot speak for our party as you have done by your letter and as we are doing by this reply. We do not believe that any one has the right to use the name 'socialist' without being a member of our party and without having signed the declaration of principles of the party.

We do not believe that anyone has the right to use the name 'socialist' without being a member of our party and without having signed the declaration of principles of the party.

In criticism of socialists, one must remember that the labor movement is a social movement. It is the greatest and the most important movement of the day. It is the movement of the working class for the betterment of their condition. It is the movement of the working class for the betterment of their condition.
