THE UNEMPLOYED.

BY A. M. SIMMS.

The press is telling us every day of thousands more men laid off because of the depressed conditions of the times. The people are becoming anxious about every ten years for nearly half a century, as the result of the industrial depression which is the national problem. We know that the thousands of unemployed today will become the thousands of unemployed tomorrow. The people are afraid of the future and most of them have a feeling of insecurity that these discouraged masses must go on to go down the easy road for opportunities to see their strengths and talents in the world of work. The idea of the unemployed being a great loss to society is so strong that many persons cannot see the necessity of any change in our industrial system.

The great army of the unemployed is ready to fight for the American System. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. They are determined to fight for their independence. They are determined to fight for their freedom. They are determined to fight for their prosperity. They are determined to fight for their happiness. They are determined to fight for their future.

DEATH AND PROSPERITY.

BY AN OBSERVER.

THE PHEONIX.

The situation of the world, so far as it affects the United States, is the most difficult of any that has faced the country in the past. Our foreign relations are in a state of flux, and the economic policies of the United States are in a state of uncertainty. The world is in a state of uncertainty, and the United States is in a state of flux.

The United States is in a state of flux, with the result that the United States is in a state of uncertainty. The world is in a state of uncertainty, and the United States is in a state of flux.

AN APPEAL TO THE WESTERN FEDERATION OF MINERS

You may think it strange that any one should address an appeal to you, or any other group, on a subject beneath the wheels of locomotion in an industrial age. You have been told that you are members of the world of toil, and that your minds and bodies are the property of the capitalist class. You have been told that your wages are fixed by the laws of nature, and that you cannot alter them by the power of your own strength. But in reality it is you who own the world of toil, who control its destinies. You are the possessors of a power which is greater than any other human power. You are the possessors of a power which can control the work of the world. You are the possessors of a power which can control the destiny of the world.

The world of toil is a part of the great universe of labor and industry. It is the home of the human race, and it is the home of the great forces of nature. It is the home of the forces of production, and it is the home of the forces of destruction. It is the home of the forces of life, and it is the home of the forces of death.
