THE PACKINGTOWN STRUGGLE.

And some of the Lessons, It is Teaching Workingmen.

For many years Chicago, the cap of employment and the heart of labor's struggle, has been pointed as the model of the conditions of the toil of the workingman in the United States. For a long time the trade unionists of the city have been striving to better the conditions of labor in this city, and the result of their efforts has been very satisfactory.

In 1886 the Workingmen's Board of Trade was formed, and it immediately began to work for the establishment of a strong and powerful union, which should be able to afford a sufficient resistance to the demands of the employers. This union was called the

Workingmen's Board of Trade, and it was composed of the trade unionists of the city, who were determined to fight for the improvement of the conditions of labor.

In the following year the Workingmen's Board of Trade

began to work for the establishment of a strong and powerful union, which should be able to afford a sufficient resistance to the demands of the employers. This union was called the

Workingmen's Board of Trade, and it was composed of the trade

unionists of the city, who were determined to fight for the improvement of the conditions of labor.

In the following year the Workingmen's Board of Trade

began to work for the establishment of a strong and powerful

union, which should be able to afford a sufficient resistance to the demands of the employers. This union was called the

Workingmen's Board of Trade, and it was composed of the trade

unionists of the city, who were determined to fight for the improvement of the conditions of labor.

In the following year the Workingmen's Board of Trade

began to work for the establishment of a strong and powerful

union, which should be able to afford a sufficient resistance to the demands of the employers. This union was called the

Workingmen's Board of Trade, and it was composed of the trade unionists of the city, who were determined to fight for the improvement of the conditions of labor.

In the following year the Workingmen's Board of Trade

began to work for the establishment of a strong and powerful

union, which should be able to afford a sufficient resistance to the demands of the employers. This union was called the

Workingmen's Board of Trade, and it was composed of the trade

unionists of the city, who were determined to fight for the improvement of the conditions of labor.

PARRY'S TROUBLES

BY ERNEST UNTERMANN

The proceedings of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Industrial Union were held at Indianapolis, Ind., on May 21. The convention was composed of delegates from over 200 affiliated unions.

In his report, the General Secretary, Mr. Parry, stated that the union had made a gain of over 20,000 members during the year. He also reported that the union had been able to secure better wages and working conditions for its members.

The convention passed a resolution in favor of the eight-hour day and of the eight-hour week. It also passed a resolution in favor of the nationalization of all industries.

The convention adjourned on May 25.

THE CAMPAIGN OF 1904. (Continued from page 100.)

By the appointment of Judge Pease, the election of the president of the United States is now in the hands of the Democratic party.

Judge Pease is a man of great ability, and is well known for his legal knowledge. He was born in the state of Ohio, and has been a resident of that state for many years. He has been a member of the bar for over thirty years, and is now one of the leading lawyers in the state.

Judge Pease is a man of great ability, and is well known for his legal knowledge. He was born in the state of Ohio, and has been a resident of that state for many years. He has been a member of the bar for over thirty years, and is now one of the leading lawyers in the state.

Judge Pease is a man of great ability, and is well known for his legal knowledge. He was born in the state of Ohio, and has been a resident of that state for many years. He has been a member of the bar for over thirty years, and is now one of the leading lawyers in the state.
LABOR DAY EDITION

The working-class struggle and working-class solidarity will be clearly explained and portrayed in the LABOR DAY EDITION of the Chicago Socialist, to which many of the labor writers in the country will contribute. There will be special articles on the Unemployment problem, the working-class interest in the working people.

FILE YOUR BUNDLE 300

500 Copies, 85c; 1,000, $1.00

Comrades, Give This Issue a Record-breaking Circulation

CATHOLIC ASKS PRIEST QUEST

The following letter and newspaper clipping were sent by a Catholic to the Chicago Socialist, expressing his opinion on the War and the Catholic Church. The letter has been translated into English from the original Latin text.

THE CRUCIFIX

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION 1922

Chicago, August 31, 1922.

In answer to your request, I am enclosing a clipping from the Chicago Daily News, which contains an article on the Labor Day celebration. The article states that there were over 200,000 people present at the celebration, which included a parade, speeches, and a mass meeting. The laborers and their families were presented with ribbons and medals for their contributions to the war effort. The celebration was a vivid reminder of the solidarity of the working class during the great strike of 1922.

SPECIAL OFFER

THE STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE

By Walter Thomas, A. M.

This is a Study of the Principles Economic and Their Application to the Collective Income

ORDER AT ONCE!

TheStrange

By August 28th, 1920, the Chicago Socialists have already spent over $10,000 on their campaign for labor reform. If you want to give a hand, please write to H. G. Willson, 900 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago. We need your support if we are to continue our work for the betterment of the working class. Thank you for your help. Sincerely yours,

THE CHICAGO SOCIALIST, 101 Randolph St., Chicago

WILL YOU BE MY PARTNER?

My magazine is now on a publishing basis. That is, I am taking a chance, putting in the money that I have saved. It is the first magazine of its kind and it is still growing. I would like to have you as a partner in this venture. I have invested $1,000 in the magazine and I would like to recover that amount. Please let me know if you are interested in becoming a partner. Thank you.

CAYLOR WILSBY

Wilsbury's Magazine, New York, N. Y.

130 EAST 62 STREET