BIG-FIGHT

ON FOR SCHOOLS

A Roper Bill to Legislature—Board Out.

A school club coal of no small proportions is at work in Chicago. It is to be seen in the church attractiveness, in the steady pressure which is brought to bear against the school board and the legislature in the interest of the working people. The club is made up of teachers, parents, and other interested individuals, who are working for the improvement of the schools and the interest of the children. They are doing this in an organized and systematic way,
and they are making a real fight for the children's interests.

The club is working with the school
board, and it is working with the legislation to secure better schools for the children. It is working to secure provisions for the health and welfare of the children, and it is working to secure the best possible educational facilities for them. The club is making a real fight for the children's interests,
and it is making a real fight for the future of our city.

City Council—Orders for Easements.

Decided to be an important move in the interests of the children, is the passing of an ordinance providing for the
obtaining of easements on public school property. This ordinance will prove of great benefit to the school system, and it will result in an immense saving to the taxpayers. The ordinance will provide for the
obtaining of easements on public
school property, and it will be of great benefit to the school system.

organized labor victimized

smokes are not allowed to strike

For ten years the labor movement all along the St. Clair and Detroit border has been struggling for the right to organize and to form local unions. In the last few years this movement has gained some headway, and the workers have succeeded in organizing in some places, but the employers have fought back and have succeeded in preventing the union from gaining complete control of the shops.

The members of the union are not allowed to strike, even for a moment, and the employers have succeeded in preventing the workers from taking any action that might involve a loss of wages.

The labor movement is not strong enough to meet the employers' resistance, and the workers are not able to fight back effectively.

The situation is not promising, and it is likely that the workers will have to give in and accept the employers' terms.

Russian rulers look for

The Russian Czar is looking for a man who can lead the country to peace and prosperity. He has offered a large sum of money to anyone who can fulfill this task.

The Czar believes that the Russian people need a leader who can make the country strong and successful. He believes that this leader should be a man of great ability and experience.

The Czar has offered a large sum of money to anyone who can fulfill this task. The offer has been made to all citizens of Russia, and the winner will be chosen by a special committee.

The winner will be chosen by a special committee. The committee will be composed of representatives from all parts of the country.

The Czar is hoping that the winner will be someone who is knowledgeable and experienced in politics and economics. He believes that the winner will be able to lead the country to prosperity and peace.

The offer has been made to all citizens of Russia, and the winner will be chosen by a special committee. The committee will be composed of representatives from all parts of the country.
Puzzle

How to send the money

A key for help is in the direction of Pullman.

The locomotives are the marauding children, the overloaded cars, the underpaid employees who live three, and who sleep and eat and exist only by permission. The Pullman Company is in the direction of the underpaid.

Besides, there is a lot of socialists who would make comments on any such procedure.

Has kept this vast sure in the surplus fund on so long that all the directors have had a chance to add this extra million dollars or two to their other investments.

Now the smaller stockholders want a look at this rich "stake." We might offer a few suggestions. It would not be a violation of the "American" law of the railroad companies to use the surplus fund for a public undertaking, which could not be done for the Pullman Company. Why not pay the Pullman porters sufficient wages to enable them to escape from the grave of debt and the annoyance of debts?

Why not reduce rents in the houses of which Pullman company illegally retains ownership in the public interest?

Why NOT give LIVING WAGES to the MEN THAT BUILD THE TRAINS WITH Pullman? We are going to have something more to say about this soon.

Some Things Settled

A few things have been fairly well settled by this campaign.

The Pullman movement in the East and West is practically identical with the amount the Pullman Company was very rich this season. But the Pullman Company has no real interest in the Pullman movement, and the attitude of the company is not to be construed as the attitude of the movement.

The Pullman movement has almost equal influence. In California and Chicago the strong men of the Pullman movement are very rich and the creditor of the Pullman movement, and the attitude of the company is not to be construed as the attitude of the movement.

John D. and His Last Plea

A Fable

The great problem, the problem that has been the subject of much debate and discussion, is the question of the rights of man. The question is, "What are the rights of man?" The great problem, the problem that has been the subject of much debate and discussion, is the question of the rights of man. The question is, "What are the rights of man?"

Our Only Answer

The problem is not one of right and wrong, but of knowledge and wisdom. The problem is to know what is right and what is wrong, and to use that knowledge to the best advantage of all.
