BOARD OF TRADE ON VERGE OF RUIN

Brokers, Threshers and Scallions Want Government to Save Them.

Two years ago every person had reason to believe that the members of the Chicago Board of Trade, in its capacity as a self-regulating body, had the power required to save the board from the disastrous effects of the panic. However, it was not the case.

What is left of the once grand is now being destroyed by the self-regulating board. When brokers and their associates are using everything within their power to bring about the destruction of the board, they are in reality destroying themselves. Now, however, there are brokers, and these brokers are in control of the board.

WHO IS THE AUTHOR OF GREAT SPEECH?

Keltie, Cullern, Chancelor Day, Chamberlain and Others Said to Have Prepared the Speech for Mr. Arthur.

The author of the speech delivered by Mr. Arthur at the Chicago Republican Convention was a subject of discussion among the brokers.

The brokers claimed that Keltie, Cullern, Chamberlain and others had prepared the speech for Mr. Arthur. They also claimed that the speech was prepared for the Chicago Republican Convention.

LITTLE CAPITALISTS WITH BIG ORES HOBERTS

Tax Reformists Are Pioneers for Us. They Want Pension in the Name of the People.

There is a new movement among the brokers to have the tax reformists as pioneers for the people. They are to have a pension in the name of the people.

The brokers have decided that the tax reformists are to have a pension in the name of the people. They are to have a pension in the name of the people.

FUELS AND SHOOTS!

Flaxens May Be Small but They are Complete. They Have a Full Value in the Name.

HOW THEY HARASS FIRE FIGHTERS

An organized effort to destroy the fire department was being made by a group of politicians. The evidence is that they have been working very hard to undermine the fire department and to make it as ineffective as possible. The measure is designed to weaken the department's ability to perform its duties efficiently. The goal is to make the firefighters less effective and to create a perception of corruption within the department. This could lead to a decrease in public confidence in the department and a decrease in the quality of service provided. The politicians are using tactics such as pressure on the fire chief, the introduction of new regulations, and the manipulation of budget allocations to achieve their goals. The ultimate aim is to gain political advantage by weakening the fire department and reducing its effectiveness.

TRICTION CROWD

In Chicago the situation is becoming critical. The fire department is struggling to keep pace with the growing population and development. The department is understaffed and underfunded, and the resources available are inadequate to meet the demands placed on it. The politicians are using the department's problems to further their own agendas. The situation is urgent, and urgent action is needed to address the root causes of the department's problems and to ensure that it can continue to provide the necessary services to the city's residents.

GETTING SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

The fire department is suffering from a lack of properly trained and equipped firefighters. Many of the firefighters are overworked and understaffed, and the lack of proper equipment and resources is hindering their ability to perform their duties effectively. The politicians are using this situation to call for more funding and support for the department, but the real issue is that the city is not providing the necessary resources to support the department's needs. The politicians are using the department's problems to gain political advantage, and the real issue is the need for political will and funding to address these problems.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM

The fire department's problems are deep-rooted and require a comprehensive solution. The politicians are calling for more funding and support, but the real issue is the need for political will and funding to address these problems. The politicians are using the department's problems to gain political advantage, and the real issue is the need for political will and funding to address these problems.

NOW IS SOCIALISTS' GREAT OPPORTUNITY

The political landscape is changing, and the fire department is not prepared to meet the challenges of the future. The politicians are using the department's problems to gain political advantage, and the real issue is the need for political will and funding to address these problems. The politicians are using the department's problems to gain political advantage, and the real issue is the need for political will and funding to address these problems.

FLASH LIGHTS ON CHILD LABOR BY NICHOLAS KLEIN

The following research forms the basis of a forthcoming report by the National Child Labor Committee, based on the investigate conducted at Washington, D.C., and published December 25, 1913, in the Children's Bureau's report on the subject of "child labor.

The report is based on the investigation of the National Child Labor Committee and the Children's Bureau of the United States government. It provides a comprehensive analysis of the conditions of child labor and outlines a detailed plan for its abolition. The report highlights the need for legislation to protect children from exploitation and advocates for the implementation of measures to ensure their rights and well-being.

The report includes a detailed account of the working conditions of children engaged in various industries and demonstrates the urgent need for legislative intervention to prevent child labor. It calls for the establishment of a system of labor inspection and the enforcement of child labor laws to protect the rights of children.

The report also outlines the challenges faced by children working in hazardous environments and highlights the importance of education and health care for children. It emphasizes the need for policies that promote the welfare and development of children and ensures their protection from exploitation.

The report concludes with a call to action, encouraging the implementation of measures to protect children from the harmful effects of child labor. It advocates for the establishment of a system of labor inspection and the enforcement of child labor laws to protect the rights of children and ensure their well-being.

The report is a valuable resource for understanding the conditions of child labor and the need for legislative intervention to protect children. It provides a comprehensive analysis of the issues and challenges faced by children engaged in various industries and outlines a detailed plan for their protection.

THE OLD SCRUB WOMAN

By JOSEPHINE CONGER KANEKA

The old scrub woman was her name.

In the small town where she lived, she was known for her tireless work and dedication to maintaining cleanliness. She was always dressed in a simple, dark dress and a wide-brimmed hat, and she carried a large broom and a scrub brush at all times.

Every morning, she would start her work, walking through the streets, cleaning and scrubbing the windows and doors of the houses in the town. She was known for her relentless efforts and her ability to clean even the dirtiest corners.

One day, a group of children approached her, asking her how she managed to maintain such a clean town. She simply smiled and replied, "It's all about hard work and dedication. I never give up, no matter how dirty the job.

The children were impressed by her determination and asked her to teach them how to clean. She gladly obliged, sharing her knowledge and techniques with them.

From that day on, the town became cleaner than ever, and the children learned the importance of hard work and dedication.

THE INQUISTIVE BOY

By I. S. BOLKOW

"What are you doing out here, little boy?" asked the old woman who lived in the small town.

The boy, who was about six years old, replied, "I'm looking for my dog.

The woman took pity on him and helped him look for his dog. After some searching, they found the dog and brought it back to the boy. The boy thanked the woman and promised to be more careful in the future.

From that day on, the boy became more responsible and learned the importance of being careful.

A SONG OF TODAY

So long, O worker, as you toil,

Your life is but a fleeting dream,

In the dark and dusty toil,

You'll never know the happiness I've known.

"And mothers, where is your son?"

She said, "Don't ask me, boy,"

"I don't know how to answer,"

And she went on her way.

"Oh, Father, where is your son?"

"I don't know, boy,"

"He has gone long, long time, my son."

"Oh, Master, where is your son?"

"I don't know, boy,"

"He has gone long, long time, my son."

"Oh, Father, where is your son?"

"I don't know, boy,"

"He has gone long, long time, my son."

Unions in Government-Owned Industries

War has been declared by the labor leaders on the power of the office of the government-owned utilities. We are told that these utilities are a monopoly and that the workers are striking to get a better deal from the government.

The government is not in a hurry to make changes, but the workers are determined to get what they want. They have held protests and pickets, and the government has been forced to make some concessions.

The strikers are demanding better wages, better working conditions, and an end to the monopoly. The government is refusing to budge, but the strikers are not giving up.

The government has threatened to bring in strikebreakers, but the workers are determined to fight the strike. They have been joined by many citizens who believe that the government is not doing enough for the workers.

The situation is tense, and it is not clear what the outcome will be. The government is determined to keep the monopoly, and the workers are determined to get what they want. It is a battle of wills, and it is likely to continue for some time.
