MAYWOOD
Another Battle in the Struggle of Labor for Justice

IILL TREATMENT OF THE LABORERS

The Whole Story of Capitalist Development. Part II.

By E. C. BROWN

Mechanical Engineer, Department of Women and Children's Labor, U. S. Bureau of Labor.

Another chapter in the great contrary struggle between labor and capital has just been written. During the past few years the workers in Maywood, Ill., have been in a state of continuous struggle against the practices of the.

Maywood Manufacturing Co., a large manufacturing concern. The battle in that city was fought with unusual vigor, and it is fair to say that the workers in Maywood have been well repaid a little Delay.

Maywood was not the only city where the struggle has been intensified. In nearly all the large cities of the United States, where there is a dense population of laboring men and women, the workers have been fighting for better conditions in recent years. The Maywood strike was only one of the many battles which have been fought during the past few years. The workers have been making progress, and it is hoped that they will continue to make progress in the future.

THE ONLY REAL NEPROM PROBLEM

A Study in Capitalist Morality—Relation of Capital to Labor in the Form of Capitalist Class Struggle As An Ideological Threat to the Western World.

There has recently been considerable publicity given to the question of capitalist morality and its relation to labor. The workers have been accenting the need for an overhaul of the capitalist system, and it is time that the workers began to compare notes with each other.

There are two sides to every class struggle, and the workers should not neglect the other.

We are going to try to give you some idea of what you should do in your own class struggle.

There are two sides to every

class struggle, and the workers

should not neglect the other.

The workers are not the only ones fighting for better conditions. The employers are also fighting for better conditions.
