UNITE AND PERISH
A Despairing Cry for Help From the Re-Form Forces.

SOCIAL PRINCIPLES OF UNION

Source of Conquest Offered the Labor

Close-Commands "Truth and Ad-

Putting Fearful"

An Effect of Concentration

An Ephemeral Return of Social Evolution

Another Class Thrown Out By Social Evolution

Patriotism

Deception of the Workers for the Benefit of Capitalism.

PURELY CAPITALIST VIRTUE

KANSAS CITY

Statement Issued by the City Central Committee.

A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD

A Statement of the Situation and Reason for the Dissolution of the States of Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, and Iowa, as well as the Territory of the Dakotas, and the Territory of the Great Plains, as having been formed for the purpose of bringing about a general war in the United States.

FROM THE TIMES OF THE PAST...

On May 23rd, the President of the United States, Mr. Benjamin Harrison, addressed the people of the United States, saying that the economic situation was critical and that a special election would be held to address the issues.

The Socialist Labor Party has not understood the intent of the President's speech. We believe in a united front against the capitalistic system, and we call for a special election to be held for the purpose of electing a Congress of the People to address the economic issues of our time. We urge all workers to vote for the Socialist Labor

Party in the upcoming election.

PORTO RICO

New Constitution for Porto Rico.

Mr. Vaccaro, Chief of Labor Affairs in Porto Rico, has announced that a new constitution for Porto Rico will be drafted and presented in the upcoming legislative session.

The new constitution will include provisions for worker's rights and the establishment of a workers' movement in Porto Rico.

In conclusion, we urge all workers in Porto Rico to support the Socialist Labor Party and to vote for the new constitution.

(Continued on page 6)

(Continued on page 22)
The Workers' Call, Chicago, Ill., July 1, 1909

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

Three times and out.

In the town of Hesse, Germany, on May 28th, a strike of workers was called by the German Federation of Labor.

This time the demands of the strikers were the usual one - an increase in wages. But what happened then was quite different from what usually happens in such cases. The strikers were determined to fight for their rights, and they did so with all the determination of a people who are tired of being exploited.

According to reports, the strikers marched into the factories and stopped production. The workers were not afraid of the police, and they were not afraid of the factory owners. They were determined to have their rights, and they were prepared to fight for them.

The police, however, were not prepared for such a challenge. They tried to break up the strike, but they were no match for the determination of the workers.

The workers were not only determined, but they were also well organized. They had formed their own strike committee, and they were able to coordinate their actions.

As a result, the strike lasted for several days, and the workers were able to get their demands met.

The success of this strike was a great victory for the workers. It showed that they were willing to fight for their rights, and that they were determined to win.

AROUND THE WORLD.

MURDER OF THE MEXICAN NAPOLEON.

When the Mexican government recently ordered the arrest of the turncoat general, it was met with a violent reaction from the people. The general was a wealthy landowner, and he had formed his own private army to protect his interests.

But the people of Mexico were determined to have their country back. They rose up in rebellion, and they fought the general's army with all the determination of a people who are tired of being exploited.

The general's army was no match for the people of Mexico. They were determined to have their country back, and they were willing to fight for it.

As a result, the general was forced to flee the country. He tried to make a run for it, but he was caught by the people of Mexico, and he was tried and found guilty of treason.

He was sentenced to death, and he was executed in the town of Mexico City.

The people of Mexico were overjoyed. They had won a great victory, and they were determined to keep their country free.

THE LABOR MOVEMENT.

The labor movement is on the march. The workers of the world are determined to have their rights, and they are fighting for them.

In Germany, the workers are fighting for an eight-hour day. In the United States, they are fighting for better wages and working conditions. In Mexico, they are fighting for their country.

But the workers of the world are not alone. They have the support of the people, and they are determined to win.

The workers of the world are fighting for a better world. They are fighting for a world where every human being is treated with the respect and dignity that they deserve.

They are fighting for a world where the workers control their own destiny. They are fighting for a world where the workers have the power to change the world for the better.

The workers of the world are fighting hard. They are determined to win. They are determined to have a better world.

We must stand with the workers. We must support them in their struggle. We must fight for a better world.

The workers of the world are on the march. They are determined to have their rights. They are determined to win. They are determined to have a better world.
Single Tax vs. Socialism
A Comparative Discussion

By M. J. S. S.

The Single Tax is one of the most important of the various social movements of recent years. It is a movement which has made a profound impression upon the minds of many people, and which has been the subject of much discussion and controversy. The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.

The Single Tax is based upon the principle that the government should take from the community a certain sum of money, which is known as the "tax," and that this sum should be distributed among the people in proportion to their ability to pay.
COMPETITION.
What is Required by Good Business Trade?

"THERE are the times when mistakes appear to be the cause of a great deal of unnecessary expenditure, but the actual cause is the want of competition. The world is becoming more and more the domain of the competitive spirit. If a man is to succeed he must compete. This is as true in business as in the fields of literature, art, and science. And it is just as true of the work of the capitalist as of the laborer. A man must have something better than his neighbor or he will be left behind."

The有点上，应重新考虑目前的政策的必要性， line of argument is that the present method of competition is not only bad but positively dangerous.

The principle of competition is that which makes business efficient, but it is also the principle that leads to waste and extravagance.

"Competition is the natural order of things. It is the law of the wilderness. It is the method by which the strongest and the fittest are preserved.

It is the method by which the weak and the feeble are eliminated. It is the method by which the world is advanced."

But there is a danger in competition. It is dangerous to the worker, the small manufacturer, the little business man. It is dangerous because it tends to make him feel that he is a failure if he cannot compete. It is dangerous because it tends to make him feel that he is a failure if he cannot compete.

The Socialists have long been advocates of cooperation. They believe that by cooperation

we can achieve a more perfect society. They believe that by cooperation we can achieve a

more perfect society.

The Socialists have long been advocates of

cooperation. They believe that by cooperation

we can achieve a more perfect society. They

believe that by cooperation we can achieve a

more perfect society.

The Socialist Labor Party of the United States.

PLATTEN.

The Socialist Labor Party of the United States, in Convention

assembled, do agree and declare:

1. That there is a need for a complete revolution in the government of the world.

2. That the workers of the world

must unite in a common struggle

against the capitalist class.

3. That the改良必须进行。

4. That the改良 must进行。

SOCIALIST BOOKS.
Directory of Section Chicago.

The Socialist Labor Party of the United States.

The Socialist Labor Party of the United States, in Convention

assembled, do agree and declare:

1. That there is a need for a complete

revolution in the government of the

world.

2. That the workers of the world

must unite in a common struggle

against the capitalist class.

3. That the改良必须进行。

4. That the改良必须进行。