A MESSAGE FROM DEBS

The decision came as a surprise to everyone, especially to the capitalists. The decision had been expected by the working class, who have been gaining strength and becoming more assertive. The lower court was upheld, and the workers defeated in their efforts to improve their working conditions. The ruling was not surprising, given the attitude of the lower court.

The workers were not happy with the decision, as it would mean a return to the conditions before the strike. The workers were angry and vowed to continue their struggle. They would not give up until they had won their rights.

The workers were determined to fight for their rights. They would not be satisfied until they had won their demands. The workers were united and determined, and they would not be easily defeated.

The workers were determined to fight for their rights. They would not be satisfied until they had won their demands. The workers were united and determined, and they would not be easily defeated. They were ready to continue their struggle, and they would not give up until they had won.

The workers were determined to fight for their rights. They would not be satisfied until they had won their demands. The workers were united and determined, and they would not be easily defeated. They were ready to continue their struggle, and they would not give up until they had won.
PRACTICAL SOCIALISM

By Rose Loeberbach.

The worker-government that is bringing peace to the long-suffering workers of the world. A revolutionary change is taking place in the world today. The old system of private ownership and exploitation is giving way to a new system of social ownership and cooperation. The workers are taking control of the means of production, and the results are already visible in the increased productivity and improved living standards of the working class.

The key to this revolutionary change is the realization that the workers are the creators of society and the economy. They are the ones who produce the wealth of the world, and they deserve to be in control of the means of production. This is why the workers are seizing control of the factories, farms, mines, and other productive resources. The result is a more equitable distribution of wealth, a higher standard of living, and a better quality of life for all.

This is not just a theoretical concept. It is happening right now. The workers are creating a new society based on worker self-management and cooperative ownership. This is the true meaning of socialism, and it is the only way to create a truly just and equitable society.

The workers' government is not just a temporary measure. It is the foundation for a new world order, where the needs of the people come first. The workers are the ones who will determine the future of the world, and they will do so in a way that is fair and just. The workers' government is the first step towards a new world order, where the workers are in control and the people are free.
PARALLELS

By John DeQuere

Some years ago, the world learned of the rise of a great new social movement and how it was to change the world—the movement of the Serbs in the Balkans. The leaders of this movement were the Serbs, who had long been oppressed by the Turks, and they were determined to gain their freedom. The movement spread rapidly, and within a short time, the world was filled with news of the Serbs' successful struggle. The movement was a success, and it showed the world that a new era of freedom and democracy was beginning.

This is a story of how the world was changed by the rise of a new social movement. The movement was a success, and it showed the world that a new era of freedom and democracy was beginning. The leaders of this movement were the Serbs, who had long been oppressed by the Turks, and they were determined to gain their freedom. The movement spread rapidly, and within a short time, the world was filled with news of the Serbs' successful struggle. The movement was a success, and it showed the world that a new era of freedom and democracy was beginning.

CLARENCE DAWSON TELLS WHAT BOLSHEVISMS IS

The Workers' World

As the world turned to the Great War of 1914, many leaders, both in the United States and abroad, were divided in their opinions about the war. Some leaders, including the President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, believed that the war was necessary to protect the interests of the United States and to maintain the country's position as a great world power. Others, including the Russian Bolsheviks, believed that the war was a result of capitalist exploitation and that it was necessary to overthrow the capitalist system. The war was a catalyst that brought about the rise of the Bolsheviks, who became the leaders of the Russian Revolution.

The Bolsheviks, led by Vladimir Lenin, were able to gain power because they were able to appeal to the masses of people who were suffering under the conditions of the Great War. They were able to win support because they were able to present a clear and simple message of revolution and change. The Bolsheviks were able to use the Great War as a tool to strengthen their position, and they were able to take advantage of the weaknesses of the Russian Empire to create a new and more just society.

The Bolsheviks, led by Vladimir Lenin, were able to gain power because they were able to appeal to the masses of people who were suffering under the conditions of the Great War. They were able to win support because they were able to present a clear and simple message of revolution and change. The Bolsheviks were able to use the Great War as a tool to strengthen their position, and they were able to take advantage of the weaknesses of the Russian Empire to create a new and more just society.

A WEEKLY SURVEY

By Scott Nearing

A New Survey

The new survey shows that the American people are more interested in the problems of the working class than ever before. The survey also shows that the American people are more willing to support the working class in their struggles for better conditions. The survey also shows that the American people are more willing to support the working class in their struggles for better conditions. The survey also shows that the American people are more willing to support the working class in their struggles for better conditions. The survey also shows that the American people are more willing to support the working class in their struggles for better conditions. The survey also shows that the American people are more willing to support the working class in their struggles for better conditions.

A War for a Better World

The workers of the United States are now working for a better world, a world in which the working class is in control of the government and industry. The workers of the United States are working for a world in which the working class is in control of the government and industry. The workers of the United States are working for a world in which the working class is in control of the government and industry. The workers of the United States are working for a world in which the working class is in control of the government and industry. The workers of the United States are working for a world in which the working class is in control of the government and industry.
EDITORIAL OF THE POLICE JUDGES

In last week's World it was reported a decision had been made to build a new police station in the southern part of the city, on the site of the old one. The reason given for this decision was that the old station was not large enough to accommodate the increasing population of the city, and that it was necessary to provide additional space for the storage of property and the detention of prisoners.

The new station will be built on a site that has been selected by the police department, and will be equipped with the latest facilities for the care and treatment of prisoners. It is expected that the station will be completed within the next year, and that it will be in operation by that time.

The new station will also include facilities for the storage of property, and will be equipped with the latest systems for the detection and prevention of crime. It is expected that the new station will be a model for the construction of future police stations in the city.

The construction of the new station will be financed by a grant from the state government, and will be carried out by a local contractor, who has been selected after a competitive bidding process. The contractor is expected to complete the work within the specified time frame, and to meet all the requirements of the police department.

The new station will be an important addition to the city's police force, and will help to ensure the safety and security of its citizens. It is expected that the new station will be a model for the construction of future police stations in the city, and will serve as a source of pride for the community.