YOUTH LABOR FLOODS METAL -- AUTO SHOPS

Increase of Youth Labor in Michigan Metal and Automobile Factories Shows Up Important Work

The presence of youth labor in the metal, machinery, and automobile industries of Michigan recently was brought to the attention of the public by the publication of the results of a survey conducted by the Michigan Department of Labor and Industry. The survey was made to determine the extent to which youth labor is employed in these industries and to ascertain the conditions under which it is employed.

The survey revealed that youth labor is employed in a number of the larger metal and automobile factories in the state, and that the conditions under which it is employed are generally satisfactory. The survey also showed that the extent of youth labor in these industries is increasing, and that the conditions under which it is employed are improving.

The survey was conducted by the Michigan Department of Labor and Industry, in cooperation with the Michigan Employment Service and the Michigan State Board of Education. The survey was made by a team of experienced investigators, who visited the factories and interviewed the managers, supervisors, and workers, and who examined the records of the factories.

The survey showed that the extent of youth labor in the metal, machinery, and automobile industries of Michigan is increasing. The survey also showed that the conditions under which youth labor is employed are generally satisfactory.

The survey was conducted by the Michigan Department of Labor and Industry, in cooperation with the Michigan Employment Service and the Michigan State Board of Education. The survey was made by a team of experienced investigators, who visited the factories and interviewed the managers, supervisors, and workers, and who examined the records of the factories.

The survey showed that the extent of youth labor in the metal, machinery, and automobile industries of Michigan is increasing. The survey also showed that the conditions under which youth labor is employed are generally satisfactory.

The survey was conducted by the Michigan Department of Labor and Industry, in cooperation with the Michigan Employment Service and the Michigan State Board of Education. The survey was made by a team of experienced investigators, who visited the factories and interviewed the managers, supervisors, and workers, and who examined the records of the factories.

The survey showed that the extent of youth labor in the metal, machinery, and automobile industries of Michigan is increasing. The survey also showed that the conditions under which youth labor is employed are generally satisfactory.
Unemployment Forces
High School Kids to Get Jobs

WASHINGTON — Five hundred high school students got jobs last week through a program sponsored by the Boston Department of Youth and Employment. The program is one of the many youth employment projects that are being to operate in the nation.

The city's job exchange has been busy filling jobs for young men and women who are unable to find work in the usual channels. The number of unemployed persons who have applied for jobs has increased greatly in recent weeks.

War Vets Laugh at Dutch Legion
Bonus Meet

CHICAGO — Three members of the American Legion, the official organization of World War I veterans, met in Chicago last week for a series of meetings. The meetings were held at the American Legion headquarters, 1001 N. Michigan Ave.

The three men were members of the American Legion's national executive committee, and they met to discuss the problems of the organization.

The meetings were open to the pubic, and the public was encouraged to attend.

2 Year Old Babies
Force Slave in New York City

BY JOSEPH WARDEN

Crews—In the "Young Worker" section of the New York World, a story about the employment of children in the garment indus-tery was published.

The story was written by Joseph Wardén, and it described the working conditions of children in the garment industry.

The article was a follow-up to a story that appeared in the New York World earlier in the year about the employment of children in the garment industry.

The Youth of the Mine Regions
and Their Environment

By THOM. STEWART

Secretary, "The Young Worker"

The Youth of the Mine Regions
and Their Environment is a book written by Thomas Stewart, a leader in the labor movement.

The book is about the working conditions of children in the coal mining regions of the United States.

The book was published in 1911, and it is considered a classic work on child labor.

And Still It Grows!

The Young Workers League has received a grant of $2,000 from the United States Department of Agriculture. The grant will be used to promote the growth of the Young Workers League.

The Young Workers League is an organization of young people who are concerned about labor issues.

The grant will be used to support the league's work, which includes promoting the rights of workers, educating young people about labor issues, and providing support to workers who are being exploited.
The Sale of An Appetite

By PAUL

(continued from the first page)

All that we saw was beautiful, and the air was filled with the fragrance of flowers and the sweet smell of the sea. It was a perfect day for our little picnic, and we decided to make the most of it.

We drove to the beach, where we found a nice spot under a large tree. The sand was warm and the waves were gently lapping at the shore. We unpacked our Picnic lunch and sat down to enjoy the view.

The children were particularly happy, and they ran around playing in the sand and splashing in the water. We watched as they built sandcastles and sailed their small boats in the ocean.

As the sun began to set, we packed up our things and drove back to the city. The children were exhausted, but happy, and promised to come again soon.

The next day we visited a nearby museum and spent the afternoon looking at the exhibits, before returning home for dinner.

Overall, it was a wonderful trip, and we all agreed that it was a great way to spend the day together. We had a lot of fun and made many memories.

In the end, the sale of an appetite had been successful, and we all went home satisfied and grateful for the experience. The children were happy and the adults were content, and we knew that we would do it again soon.
THE YOUNG WORKER
Vol. 11. No. 10
FEBRUARY 7, 1924

THE SOUTH NEWS

A Fairy Tale of Wood and Oil

If you believe in fairy tales, and why shouldn't you, here's one for you...

THE YOUNG WORKER

The Koo Koos Again

Edward Young Clarke, the immortal author of the Ex Koooo Koos, has returned. His first book of verse was a huge success. The Koo Koos are making a new bid for stardom. Let us again welcome them with open arms and hearts.

THE YOUNG WORKER

Have You a Copy?

Have you bought one? No! Many of the "Fairytale Problem of the Summer," have not. The Young Workers League has quite a number of them in stock, and they are as popular today as ever.

THE YOUNG WORKER

Catching 'em Young

Unlike some other governments, the Young Workers League does not consider it too early to introduce children to the world of labor. The League's report deals directly with this subject. It states that the children of working-class parents should be taught the value of work and the importance of individual achievement, even from a very early age.

THE YOUNG WORKER

Look at America!

Do you know that 37,000,000 children in the United States are working with their own hands? This is a very high percentage, considering the present economic conditions. The League is doing everything possible to help these children.

THE YOUNG WORKER

For Those Who Died Unseen

Gardehle for the unknown dead! They were the ones who fought and died for the freedom of others.

THE YOUNG WORKER

Birthday in February of Political Prisoners

Birthdays in February of political prisoners are observed in America.

THE YOUNG WORKER

Impropaganda

The Chicago Daily News says: "The little man in the pew of the Little Church is being watched by the Daily News."

THE MUSCOVY

Youth or Young Workers?

The need for the Young Workers League is as great today as ever. The League is needed to help the young workers understand their situation and to give them guidance in the struggle for better conditions.

THE YOUNG WORKER

The Farming Youth — A Problem

For those who are interested in the problem of farming youth, here is a brief outline of the situation.

THE YOUNG WORKER

[End of article]