\textbf{THE YOUNG WORKER}

\textbf{THE WAR TO END ALL WARS}

\textbf{BY JULIA SCHULNER}

It is nothing that the United States entered the war, possibly will not accomplish anything that the United States entered the war, but it is an indication of the spirit and belief in the war as the most war in the world to date. Germany, one of the United States' most warlike allies, has already begun to make preparations for more war, and it is the most warlike ally of all the Allies.

The Boy Scouts are the children of the workers in every part of the world. They represent the best of the laboring classes, and their activities are directed towards the welfare of these classes.

\textbf{GermANY'S WORKERS STARVE}

The workers of Italy and Germany are hungry. And ever greater grows the American army of hungry and unemployed workers.

The veterans bureau is the worst graft-ridden bureau in the government. The same methods of fraud, kickbacks, and kickbacks in kickbacks of all kinds are practiced in the veterans bureau. The same methods are practiced in the old schools of the United States. All are enrolled, and all the United States' workers are enrolled in the veterans bureau. The workers, as usual, are being cheated out of every cent of their earnings.

The Growth of American Militarism

NOTE—This article by Kenneth Lovestone was taken from the American Magazine, Vol. XXV, No. 2, February, 1936, pp. 21-27. It is reprinted with the permission of the publisher, The Curtis Publishing Company.

The sudden and unexpected growth of America’s military establishment, which has been so flagrant in recent years, is not due to any natural tendency of the people to martialism, but has been brought about by the policies of the government, which has been forced to take on a more aggressive role on the world stage. The increase in military spending has been accompanied by a corresponding increase in the size of the armed forces, and the country is now one of the most heavily armed nations in the world.

Growing Militarism

The rise of militarism in America has been accompanied by a number of changes in the political and economic landscape of the country. The government has increased its spending on military projects, and the military has become a major factor in the nation’s foreign policy. The growth of the military has also had a significant impact on the economy, as it has created a large number of jobs and has stimulated the construction of new facilities.

Wartime Economy

The rise of militarism has also been accompanied by a shift in the economy, with the military becoming the major employer in the country. The government has taken on a more active role in the economy, with the military serving as a major market for consumer goods. The growth of the military has also led to a rise in the prices of consumer goods, as the government has been forced to increase its spending on military projects.

The Future of Militarism

The growth of militarism in America is likely to continue in the years to come, as the government is likely to increase its spending on military projects. The military will continue to be a major factor in the nation’s foreign policy, and will be a major source of employment for the country. The growth of the military will also have a significant impact on the economy, as it will create a large number of jobs and will stimulate the construction of new facilities.
