YOUNG WORKERS FIGHT AGAINST ABRAMOVITCH

Play Leading Part in Protest Against Traitor

The Young Workers League of Chicago was the first to strike against the recent action of the Communist League of America. It has been announced that the League was organized in protest against the action of the Communist Party of America. A meeting was held in the League's building in the afternoon of the day the protest was made. The meeting was attended by a large number of the League's members. Discussing the matter, the League's members expressed the opinion that the Communist Party of America was not interested in the League's members, but only in the League's members who were interested in the Communist Party of America. The League's members also expressed the opinion that the Communist Party of America was not interested in the League's members, but only in the League's members who were interested in the Communist Party of America. The League's members also expressed the opinion that the Communist Party of America was not interested in the League's members, but only in the League's members who were interested in the Communist Party of America.

THE HISTORY OF THE "LONDON LEXISIT"

By JOHN WILLIAMSON

Among the many achievements of the British Communist League must be cited the launching of their daily newspaper, "The London Lexisit." Published in 1930 for the first time in two editions of 2,000 copies it has grown yearly to 11,000 in daily, reflecting the growth of the British young workers' circulation of 25,000.

Due to the economic conditions prevailing in 1930, only two issues were printed, but in 1931, there had increased to eight issues per year with a circulation of 4,000. In 1932, it became a monthly with a circulation of 8,000. During these years the paper was sold at a profit. However, starting with 1933, the paper began a real life hit, and a subscription circulation of 15,000, and was published bi-weekly. The London Lexisit was not content with this splendid progress but continued its campaign and in 1932 the paper appeared three times a week with a circulation of 60,000.

SEARS-ROEBUCK HIRING AGAIN!

But Takes Back Workers at Lower Wages

Immediately following the October 12th, the workers of Sears, Roebuck & Co. were on strike. The workers had struck for the first time in 1929 and had been on strike for the second time in 1931. The company had offered to return to the workers at the same wages as before the strike, but the workers refused to accept these wages.

PITTSBURGH DISTRICT CONFERENCE
SPEEDS UP COAL MINE ACTIVITIES

On March 7, in Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh District Conference of the Union of United Miners demanded that the coal mine operators increase their work force by at least 40 percent. The Conference is a union, and the operators are fighting against the union's efforts to improve working conditions and wages.

The following resolutions were passed:

Resolutions: 1. That the various mines be called upon to make a start towards an increase in the number of men working on the mines.
2. That the operators be asked to cooperate with the District Conference in the attempt to speed up the work force.
3. That all workers be encouraged to work harder and longer hours.

TOILING YOUTH
By HARRY GANNES

CHAPTER IV—Continued

In Jemmy City, Hoboken, New York, and other New Jersey cities many children are forced to work early morning until ten o'clock at night in sweatshops. A good many of the children work from three to six hours a day. There are over 40,000 child workers in the United States, and more than 80,000 in the city of New York. The children are paid less than $2 a week. Many of them are illiterate and ill-clothed. They have no chance for education or recreation. Their work is hard and their hours long. They are denied the right to vote. They are denied the right to form unions. They are denied the right to organize. They are denied the right to strike. They are denied the right to live. They are denied the right to die.

But there are certain conditions that are not only dangerous but also unhealthy. The children are exposed to the elements, and they are exposed to the dangers of disease. The children are exposed to the dangers of accidents. The children are exposed to the dangers of fire. The children are exposed to the dangers of poisonous gases. The children are exposed to the dangers of irradiation. The children are exposed to the dangers of radiation. The children are exposed to the dangers of ionizing radiation. The children are exposed to the dangers of ultraviolet radiation. The children are exposed to the dangers of infrared radiation. The children are exposed to the dangers of visible radiation. The children are exposed to the dangers of invisible radiation.
