WAR IS CERTAIN SAYS LEADER OF PHILIPPINES

New World Slaughter is Forecast

MANILA, P.L.: The theory that war is inevitable is proven by the present situation of the East, according to Dr. Jose Rizal, noted Filipino scholar, who said war has become an economic necessity.

Dr. Rizal said that the economic depression in the Philippines has caused the world to drift into a state of war, and that this war is inevitable.

"The world is in a state of economic depression, and war is the only remedy," Dr. Rizal said.

Dr. Rizal said that the Philippines is not immune to the effects of the economic depression, and that the country will soon be plunged into a state of war.

The Philippines is an important source of rubber, and the demand for rubber is increasing as the world drifts into war.

"Rubber is the lifeblood of the Philippines," Dr. Rizal said. "Without rubber, we cannot conduct our affairs."

Dr. Rizal said that the Philippines is not in a position to resist the demands of the world for rubber, and that the country will be forced to go to war to obtain the necessary supplies.

"We cannot resist the demands of the world," Dr. Rizal said. "We must go to war, or we will lose our rubber."
WAGE CUTS IN INDIA JUST AS IN AMERICA

Department Stores Are Shy of Shops for Young Workers

When you go to a department store and ask for a young worker, you are usually told by the young woman that the store has no vacancies. This is not true. The stores have a policy of hiring young people but are very select about whom they hire. They like to hire young people who have been trained in a trade school or who have been employed in their family. They also prefer to hire young people who are single and have no children. They are usually not interested in hiring young people who are married and have children.

Young Workers’ Correspondence

To the Editor:

I am writing to you because I am very concerned about the treatment of young workers in this country. I have been working in a department store for the past year and have found that the management is not treating us fairly. They give us very little training and they expect us to work very hard for very little pay. I have asked several times for a raise but they have always said no. I think that this is unfair and I would like to know what I can do to change this.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
The Russian Young Communist League

BY JOHN WILLIAMSON

The American young workers have long been engaged in the struggle for justice and freedom. They have fought for the right to work, to organize, and to form a union. They have struggled against the exploitation of the working class and for the betterment of their living conditions. Their efforts have been directed towards the establishment of a labor movement that is independent of the capitalist system.

The American young workers have long been engaged in the struggle for justice and freedom. They have fought for the right to work, to organize, and to form a union. They have struggled against the exploitation of the working class and for the betterment of their living conditions. Their efforts have been directed towards the establishment of a labor movement that is independent of the capitalist system.

The American young workers have long been engaged in the struggle for justice and freedom. They have fought for the right to work, to organize, and to form a union. They have struggled against the exploitation of the working class and for the betterment of their living conditions. Their efforts have been directed towards the establishment of a labor movement that is independent of the capitalist system.

The American young workers have long been engaged in the struggle for justice and freedom. They have fought for the right to work, to organize, and to form a union. They have struggled against the exploitation of the working class and for the betterment of their living conditions. Their efforts have been directed towards the establishment of a labor movement that is independent of the capitalist system.

The American young workers have long been engaged in the struggle for justice and freedom. They have fought for the right to work, to organize, and to form a union. They have struggled against the exploitation of the working class and for the betterment of their living conditions. Their efforts have been directed towards the establishment of a labor movement that is independent of the capitalist system.

The American young workers have long been engaged in the struggle for justice and freedom. They have fought for the right to work, to organize, and to form a union. They have struggled against the exploitation of the working class and for the betterment of their living conditions. Their efforts have been directed towards the establishment of a labor movement that is independent of the capitalist system.
Boosting Pearl Harbor

This is not the first time that the United States has been called upon to send a small group of American soldiers to a foreign land to protect a much larger state. In the case of Pearl Harbor, the United States is sending a small military base to a foreign country to protect the national interests of the United States.

The United States is committed to protecting the freedom and sovereignty of other nations, and this commitment has been a cornerstone of American foreign policy for decades. By sending a military presence to a foreign country, the United States is demonstrating its commitment to upholding the principles of international law and to promoting peace and stability in the world.

The decision to send American soldiers to Pearl Harbor is based on a careful analysis of the situation on the ground in that region. The United States believes that this action is necessary to protect the interests of the United States and to promote stability and security in the region.

In conclusion, the United States is committed to protecting the freedom and sovereignty of other nations, and this commitment is reflected in the decision to send American soldiers to Pearl Harbor. The United States is committed to working with other nations to promote peace and stability in the world, and this action is one example of that commitment.