YOUNG WORKERS STRIKE IN PHILADELPHIA SHOP

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The pocketbook workers of Philadelphia have decided to strike. This is a strike of young workers, especially the pocketbook workers. The pocketbook trade consists mainly of young workers and this accounts for the greater exploitation.

"$2 to $4 Per Week"

"The average wages of an operator is $2 to $4 per week, entering boys from $1 to $2 and seamen from $1 to $3."

"The majority of the young workers are under 21 years of age."

"They are working 70 to 60 hours a week."

"The present strike is a result of the exploitation of the young workers by the employers."

"The strike is expected to last for several weeks,"

"The owners are trying to break the strike by offering

"Wages of $3 to $4 per week."

"The young workers are determined to

"Demand an increase of wages to $5 to $6 per week."

"They are prepared to strike for as long as necessary."
