The Political Report of the Central Committee to the XVI. Party Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union

Comrade J. Stalin's Address on June 27, 1936

II. The Increasing Progress of the Building-Up of Socialism and the Inner Situation of the Soviet Union.

The report is divided into two main sections: the increasing progress of the building-up of socialism and the inner situation of the Soviet Union. The former section discusses the economic and social advancements made in the country since the previous Congress, while the latter focuses on the internal political and social conditions within the Soviet Union.

The report begins with a discussion on the economic progress of the country, emphasizing the growth of the material base and the improvement of living standards. It highlights the role of the working class in the struggle against imperialism and the exploitation of workers in capitalist countries.

The second section delves into the political situation within the Soviet Union, outlining the measures taken to suppress counter-revolutionary activities and the struggle against fascist threats. The report also touches on the condition of the working class, the fight against unemployment, and the strengthening of the anti-fascist united front.

The document concludes with a call to continue the struggle against imperialism and fascism, emphasizing the importance of unity among the working class and the role of the Communist Party in leading the伟大斗争.

First International Conference of Negro Workers

The report ends with a discussion on the First International Conference of Negro Workers, highlighting the role of the Negro workers in the anti-imperialist struggle and their contributions to the development of socialism in the Soviet Union.
